

TOUCHPOINT CHANGE!

Buy Time - Time To Survive and Thrive -

When the future is uncertain, markets are tight and credit is expensive, one of the most precious commodities is time.

Now is the time to take action to release capital, reduce waste, accelerate processes and reduce cost, you can buy vital extra time to grow or turnaround your business even whilst others are slowly losing market share or cash.

By taking a holistic approach to improve all areas of your business you not only buy time, but also efficiency and quality that will stand you in good stead in the longer term.

The key is to take a balanced approach, to adopt a pragmatic method and to engage all of your people to contribute.

Reduce capital and work in progress This can release interest-free cash back into the business in a way that improves the bottom line quarter by quarter.	Accelerate processes Every business process can be streamlined to improve quality for customers, reduce cycle time and backlogs, and lower costs
Instill a cost management culture Blanket edicts can be counter-productive but instilling a cost consciousness will control costs without damaging delivery.	Manage suppliers Every supplier should have a joint win-win plan to improve performance and quality. Working together is vital in the long term.
Improve resource skills and flexibility Many efficiencies can be identified during a full review of resourcing policies, schedules and recruiting practices.	Exploit existing technology/ investments You may not be planning to invest new capital, but many new benefits can be released from previous systems/ projects.
Continuously improve everything The cumulative benefits from the myriad of small operational changes should not be underestimated. A systematic approach can yield as many benefits as for a major project. You have already made the significant investment - in your people.
